EXPLANATORY NOTES

Only half of the vital records to 1850, from the Plymouth Town Clerk's books, have previously appeared in print. These records are from volume one and part of volume two and constitute the first 318 pages of this book; they were taken from literal transcriptions by the legendary George E. Bowman, in The Mayflower Descendant quarterly magazine. We have compared his work to the original records and found his accuracy impressive; few discrepancies were of enough significance to warrant correction.

Dr. Lee D. van Antwerp transcribed the balance of the vital records through the year 1849 from microfilm prints of the Town Clerk's records to form pages 318-649. His work was meticulously compared with the films and corrected as needed. These additional records are from volumes two and three, and from the Register.

The appendix contains a few records copied from the published Plymouth Colony Records, some of which are identified as belonging to Plymouth people.

All names in the above records are included in the index, which we believe to be a most significant part of the present volume.

The names of persons and places have been copied exactly; Middo. stands for Middleboro, Plymo. for Plymouth etc. All other spellings were modernized. Standard capitalization has been used for clarity. Dates are not changed from old style (O.S.) to new style (N.S.); those which were recorded, for example, as 17011/12 are printed here as 1711/12. Words which were crossed out in the town books are struck through in the printed text. Marriage intentions have been shortened somewhat and, usually, an asterisk and footnote have been used on those pages so that the intentions will not be mistaken for marriage records. Birth records in early years often listed both parents with the family surname (e.g., children of Nathan Ward and Elizabeth Ward his wife), which does not mean that the father and mother were born with the same surname. On items of doubtful interpretation, the editor and proofreaders have checked with each other, with the original record books, and with the 19th century copies made by Nahum Mitchell around 1840. Any items of which we are still unsure carry bracketed comments.

OUR THANKS TO

Andrew J. Collas, Town Clerk of Plymouth, for granting permission to print these records and for lending the microfilms so that we might do this work many miles from "America's Home Town."

The late Lee D. van Antwerp, Former Governor General of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants and a Past Governor of the Illinois Society of Mayflower Descendants, for his major part in this work (see page viii).

The late Ruth Wilder Sherman and the late Robert M. Sherman of Rhode Island for computerizing the records, as well as for their careful proofreading and editing.

Roger D. Joslyn of New York and Robert M. Sherman for indexing, and Shirley M. Pizziferri for proofreading the index.

Jerome E. Anderson of Massachusetts, Robert Charles Anderson of New Hampshire, David L. Greene of Georgia, Roger D. Joslyn, and Robert S. Wakefield of California for further proofreading and for offering constructive criticisms.

Charles F. Mathewson of Plymouth for endpaper and frontispiece artwork.

That hardy little band of people who braved the high seas and founded the mother town from which sprang many daughter towns in New England and elsewhere.

HOW THIS BOOK CAME TO BE

In 1976, Dr. van Antwerp responded to a challenge in The Mayflower Quarterly addressed to interested and capable persons that they should undertake some sort of Bicentennial project which would honor our country's anniversary and at the same time be a boon to historians and genealogists. He selected as his project the transcribing of the Plymouth Vital Records, of which only about half was in print. Mrs. Sherman obtained the necessary permission and films and, for several years, Dr. van Antwerp diligently read the film and typed what he could read, despite severely failing eyesight.

At this point Mrs. Sherman and her husband, Robert M. Sherman, with their long experience in reading the 17th and 18th century handwritings, agreed to take his work, computerize it, compare it with the filmed originals, and make the needed changes. This was completed by 1984, but the untimely death of Mr. Sherman put the work on hold. With the publication of this volume, Dr. van Antwerp's vision will have become a reality.

Only those who have successfully brought an accurately-transcribed volume of 17th century records into print will appreciate the work which has been done since 1984 by those thanked above (and others) in order that the best possible version can be made available in this 92d year since the Rhode Island Mayflower Society was founded.

OTHER PLYMOUTH SOURCES

There are many other published and unpublished original records which serve as "mortar" to hold the Plymouth vital record "bricks" together. VITAL RECORDS FROM THE TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE
BOOK ONE

This first volume of Plymouth vital records has two title pages, both signed by Thomas Faunce, town clerk, the first dated 1699 and the second 1696/7. Upon closer examination, however, it is clear that the book was begun in late 1686, and added to regularly after that.

The first 125 pages of the original volume (and then pages 153 through 187 and 213 through 218) contain births, arranged by family. Initially the clerk entered three families per page, writing at one sitting the dates of all children born by the time that the group entry was begun, and then leaving space to add additional births as they came along. For example, on original page 20, the three families initially entered were those of Eliazer Cushman, John Pratt, and Robert Bartlet; then, toward the end of the book's useful life, a later town clerk inserted the family of Phineas Swift.

Close examination of the ink and handwriting shows that the first few families were entered in late 1686 or early 1687. In many cases the first several entries will be in the same ink, and will have the look of being entered all at once; in the earliest entered families, the latest dates in these first groupings are in December of 1686 and January of 1686/7. In the family of Joseph Faunce (on original page 20), all entries down to and including daughter Mercy, born 30 June 1686, were done at the same time, after which later events were recorded individually.

The town clerk did not carry out a full survey of the town in those first few months. As early in the book as page 10, we see that the entries made at the first sitting are late in 1687 (John Mordow, 13 December 1687; John Drew, 4 August 1687; Samuel Garner, 10 September 1687). The book grew, month by month and year by year, as new families were added, three to a page. Some of these may have been families newly arrived in town; others may have simply not bothered to enter births for many years.

Because each family was slightly different, there is no way to transfer all the nuances to the printed page. Examination of the original will, therefore, continue to be rewarding in cases where there are discrepancies in the record, or where there is some question regarding the date of arrival of a family in Plymouth.

This volume also contains marriages (pages 127-152), marriage intentions (pages 219-267), and deaths (pages 199-212). The marriages and deaths also begin late in 1686 or early in 1687, with a few scattered entries for earlier years.

[fly-leaf at back of book]
Abigal CORNISH decd. the last day of May 1724

Having occasion to examine the town records of Plymouth in the autumn of this year, 1842, the first book of births, deaths, and marriages was not in possession of the present town clerk, and it appeared by information from him it never had been; nor could I learn from any quarter that there was any such book in existence. On mentioning this to some of my friends enquiry was made, and this volume was at length discovered, and being very much out of its binding and most of its leaves entirely loose, I put it in order, and have procured it to be bound. There is missing the 2d leaf, containing the 2d & 3d pages, where a blank leaf is inserted. This leaf was lost no doubt long before the book was mislaid, because neither the new or old index alludes to these pages. There are also two leaves missing among the records of deaths between pages 205 and 210; how long these have been lost cannot now perhaps be ascertained. Except in these two instances the book appears entire, because in the margin of the last page (267) containing a record of publishments there is this direction, "continued to 2d vol. page 111th." END OF REGISTER VOLUME

VITAL RECORDS FROM PLYMOUTH COLONY RECORDS

Plymouth Colony, long known simply as the Old Colony, came into being in 1620 with the arrival of the Pilgrims from England, and lasted until it was absorbed by Massachusetts Bay Colony in October 1691. During those several decades, the Colony encompassed most of the area now lying within three southeastern counties of Massachusetts – Barnstable, Bristol, and Plymouth – and also portions of two adjacent counties of Rhode Island – Bristol and Newport.

The largest single published source of Colony records (not all of them are yet in print) is Records of the Colony of New Plymouth, by Nathaniel B. Shurtleff and David Pulsifer, published in the middle of the 19th century. Their work has since been supplemented, and at times corrected or duplicated, by George Ernest Bowman and others in The Mayflower Descendant and Pilgrim Notes and Queries, and by Lucy Hall Greenlaw in The Genealogical Advertiser.

From the above, one may better understand why it is no simple matter for genealogists, historians, and others involved in Plymouth Colony research to locate the records which interest them.

The original records of Plymouth Colony are in the custody of the Plymouth County Register of Deeds, but at this time are held in the county vault, in the office of the County Commissioners, in the annex to the Plymouth County Courthouse. They have been microfilmed by the Genealogical Society of Utah, the genealogical arm of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (the Mormons), and are available through its family history centers (formerly called branch libraries) around the world.

Volumes one and two of the original records of Plymouth Colony, labelled "Court Orders," and volume eight, labelled "Marriages Births Burials," contain entries which supplement or duplicate those in the town record books. Included below, to make this volume of births, marriages, and deaths for the town of Plymouth as complete as possible, are all the Plymouth entries which appear in volume eight of Shurtleff. Unfortunately, Shurtleff made a number of errors in transcribing the names and dates, so these records appear below as corrected by Mr. Bowman in The Mayflower Descendant, and by other genealogists well-experienced in the writing of the Colony period. (For further details see The Mayflower Descendant 15:25-26.)

Note: The numbers given below in square brackets refer to the original volume and page numbers, not the published volume and page numbers in Shurtleff's work.
